A WORD WITH WOMEN

VALUABLE ADVICE FOR MAYSVILLE READERS

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment, the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Maysville woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. Sam Neal, 497 West Second street, Maysville, Ky., says: "Although I have never used Doan's Kidney Pills myself, I can recommend them. One of my family had a great deal of trouble from his back and kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills made him entirely better and he always praises them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

JUDGE A. Z. BLAIR.

JUDGE A. Z. BLAIR, who is to be one of the leading speakers at the forthcoming Chautauqua, is now famous in all parts of the country as the Judge from Adams county, O., who brought several hundred illegal voters to justice. In fact, some 2,000 citizens of Adams county who have heretofore indulged in selling their votes were disfranchised for a term of five years. Every paper in the country has printed columns about the affair, and magazines, including such prominent publications as the Review of Reviews, have also devoted lengthy articles to this subject and to the heroism and ability of Judge Blair. In speaking of him the editor of the Review of Reviews says, "There are traits of mind and character in Judge Blair that remind one of the patient and resolute country lawyer of Illinois who fifty years ago was president elect and about to enter upon his great burden of national responsibility." Judge Blair is as great a power on the platform as on the bench.

MAILMETER

New Device, Which If Put Into Use Will Eliminate Postage Stamps

A mailmeter that will do away with postage stamps and consequently the necessity for their cancellation is being tried out by the postoffice department.
A committee of assistants to the Postmaster General, including L. J. Robinson, Assistant Postmaster at Washington, is experimenting with the machine. The mailmeter is designed to stamp each piece of first class mail and register it at same time. The stamp is similar to the postage paid mark now used on third and fourth class mail matter. The inventor claims that the use of the machine will result in a great saving in time and money in handling first-class letter mail.
The mailmeter, if adopted, will be placed

In all big business houses of the city and county and these houses, instead of stamping their mail, will simply run it through the mailometer and send it to the postoffice ready for distribution. The machine at the end of the week or month will accurately show just how much mail passed through it, and a bill for postage will be presented in the same manner as is done with fourth-class matter.

MACADAM ROAD BINDER

Important Uses of Asphalt Noted in Report of United States Geological Survey

A by-product of the oil industry is fast supplying the demands for asphalt in the United States.

Asphalt commerce has always been guided rather by the uses to which the material could be put than by the discovery of new deposits. Thus asphalt was first brought to this country from the region of the Dead Sea and elsewhere in the East for making asphalt varnish, and especially for "japanning" metals.

Asphalt found in an impure mixture with water and clay in the great asphalt lake of Trinidad has been used in large quantities for street paving.

The sulphurization of asphalt has even been applied with good effect to elastite and similar hard bitumens from Eastern Utah. The extension of this interesting basematerial process holds out attractive possibilities—for example, that the same raw material may be used in both the elastic tire of the automobile and the road over which it runs.

OUTDOOR LIFE

Will Not Offset the Ill Effects of Coffee and Tea When One Cannot Digest Them

A farmer says:
"For ten years or more I suffered from dyspepsia and stomach trouble, caused by the use of coffee (Tea contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee) until I got so bad I had to give up coffee entirely and almost give up eating. There were times when I could eat only boiled milk and bread; and when I went to the field to work I had to take some bread and butter along to give me strength.
"I doctored steadily and took almost everything I could get for my stomach in the way of medicine, but if I got any better it only lasted a little while. I was almost a walking skeleton.
"One day I read an ad. for Postum and told my wife I would try it, and as to the following facts I will make affidavit before any judge.
"I quit coffee entirely and used Postum in its place. I have regained my health entirely and can eat anything that is cooked to eat. I have increased in weight until now I weigh more than I ever did. I have not taken any medicine for my stomach since I began using Postum.
"My family would stick to coffee at first, but they saw the effects it had on me and when they were feeling bad they began to use Postum, one at a time, until now we all use Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days' trial of Postum in place of tea or coffee proves the truth, an easy and pleasant way.

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World)

William Cunningham, Jailor of New York "Revolution Martyrs"

"FOLK of fashion do complain right grievously that the groanings and lamentable cries of the rebel prisoners (both here in New York and in the prison ship on the Breucklen shore) disturb their slumbers. And they pray that Master Cunningham, our provost marshal, will devise some means to keep the poor wretches quiet at nights."

So runs an old letter written in New York during the darkest days of the American Revolution. The British had captured New York and Philadelphia. To both cities—but chiefly to New York—they brought thousands of patriot soldiers, captured in battle, and many non-combatants who had risked freedom and life to help the cause of liberty by money, gifts or by patriotic speeches.

These unlucky captives were not treated like prisoners of war. They were housed and fed—or, rather, starved—in a way the law nowadays would not permit for cattle or swine. And the man in charge of them was a blackguard whose own countrymen loathed him, William Cunningham.

Cunningham was the son of a British dragoon and was born in the regimental barracks at Dublin. In 1774 he came to America and settled in New York, where he made a living for some time by "breaking" colts and by giving riding lessons. When the Revolution broke out, in 1775, he became involved in a political row with some local patriots and was forced to flee to Boston, there to seek the protection of the British army.

His noisy loyalty to King George III. got him into trouble there and attracted the notice of Thomas Gage, the English general. Gage appointed him provost marshal to the royal army. His chance for "revenge" had come.

Cunningham was sent back to New York and was put in charge of the Revolutionary prisoners there and in Philadelphia. There were several impromptu prisons in New York where the patriot captives were lodged. One was the city hall, another the famous old "Sugar House," another the King's (now Columbia) college; another the "new gaol" (the old hall of records in City Hall park), torn down only a few years ago, and—worst of all—the "prison ship 'Jersey,'" moored on the Brooklyn shore. Churches were also turned into jails.

In the prison ship the captives were herded by hundreds in dark, foul pens, destitute of pure air and sunlight. They were given such food as a dog might well scorn, and in such tiny quantities as would not suffice to keep a dog alive. The water they drank was filthy. No medical care or chance for cleanliness or exercise was granted them. Prison fever and other maladies scourged their ranks. They died like so many flies. To such fearful condition were they reduced that the lowest city outcasts were touched by pity and secretly sent them food.

The fate of the captives in the new gaol, or hall of records, was little better. Here is an extract from Pinard's account of their sufferings:

"So closely were they packed together that when they lay down at night to rest, on the hard oak planks, and they wished to turn, it was all together, by word of command—'right'—'left'—being so wedged as to form almost a solid mass of human bodies."

All war is cruel. But such torture as this was inexcusable. And (though the British government might perhaps have bettered matters had they chosen to) the lion's share of the blame was Cunningham's. Here is a portion of his sworn confession, made in 1791, just before his own execution:

"I shudder to think of the murders I have been accessory to, both with and without orders from government, especially while in New York, during which time there were more than two thousand prisoners starved by stopping their rations (which I sold). There were also 275 American prisoners executed. A guard was detached to forbid people to look out from their doors or windows on pain of death, after which the prisoners were conducted, gagged, at midnight, just behind the upper barracks, hung without trial and then buried."

Cunningham went back to England after the war and took to riotous living. Being short of money to squander on dissipation, he forged a draft. For this crime he was tried, condemned, and, on August 10, 1791, was hanged.

He is said to have been responsible for the shameful death of nearly 2,500 American patriots. Nor could mere hatred for the colonists account for this wholesale slaughter, since he dishonestly sold for his own profit the provisions allotted to them.
